This is only a start-up kit. Packs are encouraged to change the order, substitute other activities or extend the number of meetings to meet all the requirements.

7 Steps for a successful Multi-Rank Cub Scout Girl Den

Use these 7 Steps to ensure a Successful Multi-Rank Cub Scout Girl Den.

Step 1: Terms (Learn this term and try to incorporate into sentences when communicating with Scouting leaders, volunteers and parents.)

- Multi-Rank Cub Scout Den
 - This term is defined when one Pack combines more than one age specific Cub Scout rank (Tiger, Wolf, Bear, WEBs, AOL) into one or two Dens. Due to limited number of Adult volunteers and/or age-specific Dens have fewer than five Scouts.

Step 2: Training (A trained leader delivers the best possible program.)

- Training: All Cub Leaders should complete all Cub-level position specific training. See you're District Training Chair for a complete list. In addition to position specific training, the District and Council training committees offer on-going training in November called University of Scouting and Wood Badge.

Step 3: Set-up (It's important to ensure your Pack has trained leaders that are registered before Pack meetings begin.)

- How many trained/registered Pack leaders are needed?
 - Recommended scout to adult ratio is 1:5 or 1:7 (depending on ages of the scouts).
 - Adults can be divided into these suggested groups:
 - All Adults are required to complete YPT and serve as a registered volunteer with the BSA.
 - You will need more Adults for Scouts that are in the 1st and 2nd grade, vs. Scouts in 3rd grade and higher grades.
 - Incorporate older or mature scouts into leadership roles to assist with activities and provide examples.
 - Scouting advises that Dens meet at least once per week and hold a Pack meeting once per month. The provided lesson plan provides two Den meeting lesson plan activities, and a field trip or service project. Packs that want to meet more frequently are may want to complete up to three lesson plans each month and incorporate more service projects and Pinewood Derby time during Den meetings.

Step 4: Programming (The provided lesson plan does not include Lion requirements or Scout BSA requirements).

- Age-specific Dens and Ranks
 - Lion, Kindergarteners
 - Tigers, 1st graders
 - Wolf, 2nd graders
 - Bear, 3rd graders
 - WEBS, 4th graders
 - AOL, 5th grader
 - Scouts BSA, 6th grade and higher
- The provided lesson plan is only a template and includes rank ceremonies, popcorn sale timeline and suggested activities.
- Utilize the appendix to track advancements for individual Scouts. If a rank requirement is not covered during a field trip, outing, or camp activity; you will have to ensure those requirements are covered later. Use the rank book (2018 version) as a reference.
- The Advancement Tracker, provides Pack leaders with the ability to track individual Scout attendance by their age-specific Rank, track take home assignments, and other information related to the Pack.
- The Field Trip Guide offers suggestions for activities that your Pack can participate in throughout the year, and includes rank requirements that can be completed. If the Pack decides to modify the activity, Adult Leaders may want to use make up meetings as opportunities to complete rank requirements or add to take home assignments.
- The Council does provide training and resources for Packs that have Scouts with Disabilities. For a list of specific information and available training, consider contacting the Council DisAbility Awareness committee by contacting Alissa Hunt, Alissa.Hunt@Scouting.org
- Scouting for Food is a Council-sponsored community service that is available to all Council registered Packs. The activity invites Packs to canvass their neighborhood and ask residents for non-perishable donations that the Scouts pick-up the following week. The Council provides resources to assist with the canvassing and patches after the donation pick-up. For additional information contact Artisha Lawson, Artisha.Lawson@scouting.org

Step 5: Incorporating Council to meet requirements (outdoor)

- District and Council volunteers organize outdoor activities that may cover individual Scout requirements. Consider contacting your District professional, Commissioner or Program Director for a current list of activities.
- The activities listed below occur each year, contact your District professional for a current list of dates, locations and registration costs.
 - September/October: District Cub family camp
 - October: Council Halloween Party
 - November: Council WEBELOS construction city
 - December: Don't forget to enter your service hours and advancements

Step 6: Become familiar with the Council fundraising, and recruitment calendar

- BSA Popcorn
 - The Council provides a no-up-front cost fundraiser for Units within the Council. Units are encouraged to appoint a popcorn kernel that will serve as point-person during the sale. The Council provides that individual with training, resources, and promotional items.
 - The sale kicks off in August and concludes in early November.
 - Units are encouraged to create and maintain a Unit Account, which is provided as a service at the Jadel Center.
- Recruitment Calendar
 - The Council encourages Packs to work with the District membership chair, and obtain information and dates for District or Council sponsored recruitment days and activities
 - Recruitments generally occur at least twice between August to October; however, Packs may schedule additional recruitment opportunities throughout the year.
 - The Council provides recruitment materials as a service to all registered Units, consider contacting your District membership chair for a complete list of available items.

Step 7: HAVE FUN!!

- Scouting provides opportunities for Scouts and their parent/guardian to create memories that last a lifetime.
- Scouting also prepares young people to make ethical and moral choices over their lifetime.
