

Wilderness First Aid Training December 4 & 5, 2021 Camp Miakonda

Wilderness First Aid Training is a valuable and needed skill for today's youth and adult Scouting leaders, and is required for those attending BSA High Adventure Bases and other outdoor settings more than 30 minutes from emergency services. This 16-hour first aid course for backcountry situations includes first aid skills and practice, plus leadership training for how to handle group dynamics while on trek. Be prepared for indoor classroom training with outdoor scenarios. Dress in non-uniform outdoor apparel (layers) appropriate for the weather, and bring your backpack with practical items to use in scenarios.

CPR certification is a prerequisite to taking the Wilderness First Aid training, and is NOT included in this WFA offering. If you do not have CPR certification already, and if you need access to a course to complete CPR before the WFA class, please notify Alan Lepard immediately of this need. If enough need is expressed, we may set up a course to help certify you.

Wilderness First Aid training is open to all BSA adults and all BSA youth 14 and older. All participants must have a solid working knowledge and proficiency in all first aid requirements (youth should already have earned First Aid Merit Badge).

Erie Shores Council is a certified education center of Emergency Care & Safety Institute (ECSI), an official training partner of BSA National Council.
